NORTH BURNETT REGIONAL Planning Scheme

Common uses & zones

Info Sheet

11

This info sheet introduces the most commonly encountered types of development projects and the requirements of the planning scheme that apply to them. It shows some examples of scheme uses, a selection of zones, the categories of development and assessment, and the assessment benchmarks and requirements that apply to them.

Diverse projects mean diverse applications

The North Burnett Regional Council receives enquiries for a diverse range of development projects. Some projects require no planning approval or building approval, whereas others require comprehensive applications.

Some project types

Generally speaking, projects are either—

- Commercial or retail—best located in the Centre zone;
- Residential—best suited for the General residential zone;
- Manufacturing or storage—suited to the Industry zone;
- Rural uses—the intention is that these locate in the Rural zone.

These are just a few examples.

Uses and zones

The planning scheme includes 88 standardised mandatory Queensland-wide definitions and eight of the available standard zones. The tables over the page summarise the planning scheme with a small selection of uses and zones.

Categories of development and assessment

The planning scheme is a local planning instrument that identifies categories of development and assessment in a series of tables in Part 5 Tables of Assessment. The planning scheme categorises what is prohibited, assessable or accepted development. It also identifies the category of assessment for assessable development, namely code or impact, and whether accepted development is subject to requirements.

The Regulation is also a categorising instrument.

These tables show a selection of uses and, for four of the eight planning scheme zones, the categories of development and assessment and relevant assessment benchmarks and requirements. These four zones tend to be where the majority of development occurs. The other zones are the Community facilities zone, Recreation and open space zone, Rural residential zone, and the Township zone.

Accepted development does not need any Council planning approval and does not need to comply with any scheme codes.

Accepted development subject to requirements refers to accepted development that must comply with the applicable requirements of the codes but no planning approval is needed.

Assessable—code refers to assessable development that requires a planning approval. No public notification is required but Council assesses the application against the applicable codes.

Assessable—impact assessment refers to assessable development that requires a publicly-notified planning application. Council assesses the application against the whole of the scheme.

Still need help?

This information sheet summarises the key matters to consider for people considering carrying out development. The process and legal aspects relating to property and development can be complex and confusing. Council's development services staff may be able to help.

Sometimes however it may be advisable for you to obtain your own professional help from a qualified practitioner such as a Lawyer, Surveyor, Town Planner, Architect, Building Designer, or Engineer.

Encouraging economic development

The North Burnett Regional Council is a small rural local government but it is big on facilitating good economic development. That is why the planning scheme seeks to enable business growth and expansion while simultaneously creating and protecting the appeal of living in a naturally beautiful area. While the Council can encourage or enable good development projects it is up to locals to see opportunities and then to take the initiative.

Make contact with Council's Development Services staff to find out how to streamline your next development project.
